

Punctuation

- Period (.)
 - "New Zealand is known for its stunning landscapes."
 - "Wellington is the capital of New Zealand."
- Explanation: The period is used to indicate the end of a declarative sentence, providing concise statements about New Zealand.
- Question Mark (?)
 - "What is the official language of New Zealand?"
 - "Have you visited the Milford Sound in New Zealand?"
- Explanation: The question mark is used to end interrogative sentences, indicating inquiries or seeking information about New Zealand.
- Exclamation Mark (!)
 - "Wow! The fjords in New Zealand are breathtaking!"
 - "Incredible! New Zealand has a diverse range of ecosystems!"
- Explanation: The exclamation mark expresses strong emotion or emphasis, highlighting the awe-inspiring nature of New Zealand.
- Comma (,)
 - "Auckland, the largest city, is located in the North Island."
 - "New Zealand, known for its Maori culture, attracts tourists worldwide."
- Explanation: Commas are used to separate elements in a list or set off nonessential information, providing additional details about New Zealand.
- Semicolon (;)
 - "New Zealand is a land of contrasts; from beaches to mountains, it has it all."
 - "Wellington is the capital; Auckland is the largest city."
- Explanation: Semicolons are used to join closely related independent clauses, emphasizing the varied features of New Zealand.
- Colon (:)
 - "There are three major islands in New Zealand: North Island, South Island, and Stewart Island."
 - "New Zealand offers a range of outdoor activities: hiking, skiing, and bungee jumping."
- Explanation: Colons introduce lists or explanations, providing structured information about New Zealand.
- Apostrophe (')
 - "New Zealand's indigenous people are the Maori."
 - "The kiwi bird is one of New Zealand's iconic symbols."
- Explanation: Apostrophes are used to indicate possession or contraction, conveying ownership or specific attributes related to New Zealand.
- Quotation Marks (" ")
 - "The Maori saying 'Kia ora' is a common greeting in New Zealand."
 - "Many films, including 'The Lord of the Rings' trilogy, were filmed in New Zealand."
- Explanation: Quotation marks are used to enclose direct speech or indicate titles, presenting spoken words or references related to New Zealand.